

DAILY PLANET

ALL THE NEWS THAT FITS

Tuesday, Feb. 1

2000

Shuttle launch attempt rescheduled for Feb. 9

Launch of Space Shuttle Endeavor on mission STS-99 has been postponed to allow the changeout of a Master Events Controller. At this time, it is estimated that if work goes as planned, and retesting is successful, that launch will occur on or about Feb. 9. Monday's launch was postponed due to weather conditions, and failure of the second Master Events Controller.

Flight Projects
retiree reception
2-4 p.m., Tuesday,
Bldg. 4610 cafeteria

Tuesday last day
to purchase tickets
to Sen. Shelby's
Washington
Update. Call 544-0042

Leadership Forum Tuesday kicks off Black History Month

Panelists at the Leadership Forum from 1:30-3 p.m. Tuesday in Morris Auditorium include James Jennings, deputy director of the Kennedy Space Center; Dr. Delbert Baker, president of Oakwood College; Jim Reynolds, of Huntsville's Corps of Engineers; Huntsville Mayor Loretta Spencer; Fred Gregory, associate administrator for Safety & Mission Assurance; John Stallworth, president of Madison Research; and Helen McAlpine, retired assistant superintendent, Huntsville City Schools. Amanda Goodson, director of Marshall's Safety and Mission Assurance Office, will be the moderator.